

VISION VIEWER

The Computronics Vision Viewer is one of the most versatile and advanced electronic retail displays available in the market today. The combination of the scroller bar, synchronised with a multi-line message panel is effective, informative and an ultimate "attention getter", enhancing your corporate message at point of sale.

The high brightness LED display ensures your message can be clearly read for distances up to 25 metres. No other retail signage compares with the viewing dynamics to captivate the attention of passersby with multiple advertising messages, which will promote spontaneous purchasing decisions.

There are a host of communication options available for the Vision Viewer, allowing single or multiple sites to be updated either by direct PC control over distances up to 300 metres or by using the global paging or GSM networks for remote communication control.

The Vision Viewer:

- Provides effective low cost advertising at point of sale.

- Provides interactive communication for customers with headline information that will increase your in-store enquiries.

- Allows multiple pages of messages to reinforce all your mainstream and corporate advertising.

- Allows fast updates for the latest specials and package deals from your desktop in less than one minute.
